GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

GENERAL RULES OF
The Seminar

1. everyone receives an identical deck of cards
2. each deck has its own number i.e. it's yours!
3. NOMINATIONs: at any moment you can use "Five major abilities" cards to show your appreciation of somebody's knowledge / skills
* description suggests what it can be awarded for
* nominations can be public, but do not have to
* write down the name of the nominee on the back of the card choosing day and value:

numbers of rows = days of seminar
bronze, silver, gold = nomination value, e.g., 1,2,3

* each day you can nominate any person to a particular "ability" & level only once
BUT you can still nominate the same person to other abilities on the same day

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

4. every day a secretary takes notes of all nominations from previous days, prepares rankings, and returns cards to their owners
5. earned nominations (or points) can be made public daily or weekly or seminar-ly …
6. earned nominations (or points) can be marked on name tags daily or … not
7. additional cards are used with respect to their descriptions or ad-hoc collective rules
8. use numbers 1 to 9 when evaluating, booking, bidding or arranging speakers
9. when a person leaves you speechless nominate them to “Diabolique / Joker” additional ability

game prepared for 2014 study visit
Gamification in Education & Training

POWERED BY GAMEDEC.UKW

REWERS